

Habitat for Humanity: Family Dedication Ceremony

Jerry Murphy; John Seavey, South Shore Habitat board member; and Alicia Seavey were on hand for the dedication.

Duxbury Selectmen John Tuffy and Andre Martecchini and Reverend Barbara Kszystyniak were among the many supporters of this Habitat House.

Don Hick, of the Duxbury Local Project Committee; John Galvin, president board of directors; and Mike O'Reilly, executive director, were thrilled about the project and all spoke about this labor of love.

Joseph and Aimee Bradford and daughter Samantha listen to speakers in front of their new home.

President, board of directors of the South Shore Habitat for Humanity, John Galvin thanked the town of Duxbury for the land on which this home was built.

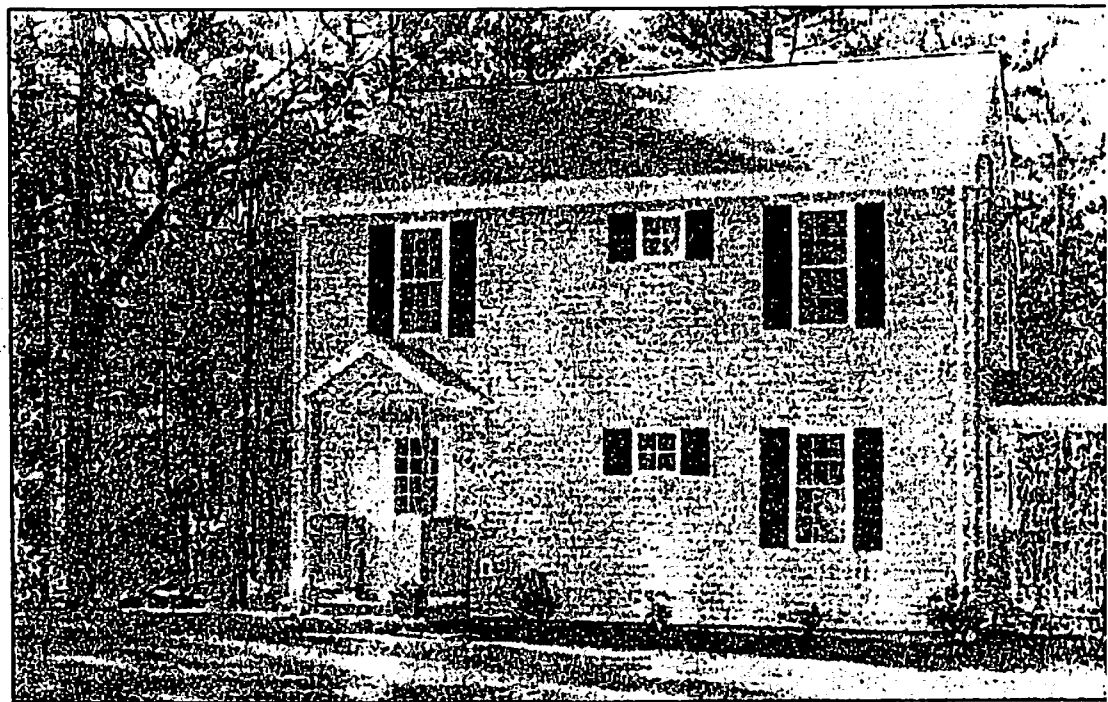

Aimee Bradford and her children Joseph and Samantha on the front steps of their new home.

The Reverend Barbara Kszystynlak gave the invocation. Don Hick from the Duxbury Local Project Committee of Habitat for Humanity is next to the Reverend.

Photos by KAREN WONG

The newly built and landscaped home on Congress Street just awaits the lawn to sprout.